MEN'S CLUB MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT IS RATED GREAT SUCCESS

Ingram Unable To Be Present, Sends His Regrets

Gathering at the Congregational Church, in Niles, Tuesday night, for one of the most outstanding sports meetings ever to be held in Washington township, 117 members of the Men's Club and their guests listened to talks by some of the leading football celebrities of the Pacific Coast.

Sports writers from the large dailies attended and word of the meet has filtered to the remote corners of the state, where football enthusiasts have entered into their fall madness.

The only disappointment of the evening was the absence of "Navy" Bill Ingram, who was unable to attend at the last minute. His representatives, however, Stub Allison, Bill Monahan and Brick Morse, upheld the Golden Bear against insidious onslaughts from the able and complete Stanford representation consisting f "Tiny" Thornhill, All American Ernie Nevers, Al Masters and Dink Templeton.

A full course dinner was served in the Guild halls by the memers of the ladies Guild, who, incidentally, contributed vastly to the success of the evening. The dinner was voted delicious, even Brick Morse, the California connoisseur smacked his lips.

In the verbal shuffle between the representatives of the rival universities, (which at no time assumed dangerous proportions,) Ernie Smith, capable radio announcer, was the referee. His timely quips, and excellent speaking voice demanded the attention of everyone present.

"Tiny" Thornhill told the assemblage of the trials and tribulations of the college football player, who faces a tough schedule, hours of killing practice, and very often the boos of the crowd. Thornhill stated that college football furnishes vast throngs with thrilling games, in which the hard-working players receive not a dime of the huge gate receipts. He pleaded for the respect of the fans, and for their tolerance in the face of a home team defeat. In telling of Stanford's chances for the Conference title this fall, Thornhill said that he has much raw material to work with, and that he is in high hopes of building a dangerous team.

Stub Allison, quiet and good natured California backfield coach, told of the California plans for the season, emphasizing the Bear's hope to upset the vaunted Trojans of S. C. this time. He said that when the California Varsity masters the quick shift, its offence will be infinitely stronger.

Brick Morse and Dink Templeton, feature sports writers for rival newspapers, and each a former star of his alma mater, told each other where to get off. Some of Templeton's allusions to heavy players bringing laughs from the assembled ladies, who had come from the kitchen to hear the fun.

Following the dinner, the Washington High varsity was ushered in to hear the college coaches. They may well be glad that they

LUSITANIA JURY DISAGREES, 3RD TRIAL SET

After voting for acquittance of Jack Freitas, salesman accused in the Lusitania case, second trial of which was held last week at Oakland, the jury disagreed for the second time over the verdict to be rendered for V. L. Coffelt and G. R. Searle, officers n the companies. The date for the third trial is set for October 30.

Coffelt, Searle and Freitas were charged with grand theft in connection with the operations of the Lusitania Corporation, of Oakland. Several Washington township people lost money in the alleged bogus deals.

Case was closed Friday when the jury took the case for consideration. Testimony was commenced for this case on August 28.

The defense council headed by K. C. Gillis and Leo Sullivan argued that Coffelt and Searle as officers of the company had no knowledge of the acts of the agents who sold the stocks of the company. Freitas was represented by Deputy Public Defender Ray Ferrario.

Coffelt and Searle faced trial on another grand indictment which charged them with thirteen counts of grand theft and conspiracy in connection with the two companies. A jury in Judge Ogden's court failed to agree on these charges concerning Coffelt and Searle, although they acquited Frank Smith and Rufino Fernandez who were jointly accused.

HIT-RUN DRIVER IS CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

Manuel Amaral, 21, of Alvarado, is being held in the county jail pending an investigation of an alleged hit-run case in Hayward Sunday in which he was involved.

Edward Briggs, a sixty-year-old resident of Hayward, was struck down by Amaral's car. According to reports, Briggs was not struck directly by the car, but was slashed by one of the wind-shield wings as the car was passing. Amaral, instead of stopping and rendering aid, sought to escape, it is alleged. He was pursued and caught after a three-mile chase by C. W. Kobberger, of Oakland, who witnessed the accident. Kobberger forced Amaral's car over to the curb. Deputy Sheriff Grover took Amaral into custody.

It is said that Amaral stated that he was unable to see Briggs as the latter crossed the street.

Briggs, it is said, was a former resident of Alvarado. He had been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Lillian Rivers, Sunday, and was on his way home when the fatal accident occurred.

THREE NEWARK PEOPLE KILLED IN ACCIDENTS OVER LAST WEEK-END

FOURNIER NAMED NILES POSTMASTER; WORD THIS WEEK

Appointment Is Released After A Delay Of Many Months

Word was received in Niles early this week of the appointment of Veloise Fournier to the position of postmaster. The appointment came after a long delay, during which time a large number of candidates aspired to the post.

Mrs. Carolyn Orcutt, outgoing postmaster, has been associated with the postal service in Niles for 22 years. She has been postmaster for 10 years, having been appointed acting postmaster in the Harding administration. She served her first commission under President Coolidge.

Mrs. Orcutt, whose work in the position has been impeccably well done, received her official notice of dismissal Tuesday. She will give over the reins to Fournier on Saturday morning, September 30, at the close of the quarter.

Veloise Fournier, a native of Niles, has stated his determination to carry on Mrs. Orcutt's good work.

ALVARADO MAN GETS SIX MONTHS IN COUNTY JAIL

Salvador Garcia, of Alvarado, was sentenced to six months in the county jail last week, when he stood trial before J. A. Silva on a charge of petty theft brought by Jack Gonzalves, Alvarado store proprietor.

Garcia pled guilty to the charge, in which Gonzalves said that he had apprehended Garcia as the latter was seizing some cigarettes and trinkets from one of the show cases.

Gonzales, who lives behind his store, averred that he had entered the rear door just as Garcia was making his getaway.

Freight Car Thieves At Work Again In Canyon

Further evidence of the continued activities of freight car thieves in Niles Canyon was unearthed this week with the discovery of nine pairs of new shoes and a filing cabinet in a cache near the brick works at the steel bridge.

The shoes were discovered near the Western Pacific tracks by several small boys, who told their parents. The police were notified, and an attempt made to discover some clue to the identity of the thieves.

The shoes were traced to a shipment bound for an Oakland firm, it being discovered previously that the consignment had been tampered with.

FISHING OUTING

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Braun, Mr. and Mrs. Marston Dassel and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peterson and son, Junior, spent Sunday fishing for bass in the channel near Avon and Bay Point. They report poor luck, saying that surrounding boats seemed to be more attractive to the finny candidates than theirs. Several limits were caught near them during the day.

M. Mendes, F. Laudenslager and R. George Die of Injuries

Three Newark persons were killed and two seriously injured in two automobile accidents over last week-end, one of them occuring on the Bay Shore highway south of San Francisco Saturday and the other near Lodi Sunday evening. The dead are:

Frederick Laudenslager, 45, long an employee of the Graham Stove plant.

Ray George, 38, Newark barber.

According to reports, Laudenslager and Mendes were instantly killed in a crash on the Bay Shore highway when a sudden sweep of wind swerved Mendes car into the lane of oncoming traffic, where it smashed into the car driven by Mrs. Alvera Ahern, of San Francisco. Laudenslager, his wife and four children were riding in the Mendes machine. Mrs. Laudenslager sustained bruises and possible internal injuries, and the children, James, 13, Leonard, 9, Richard, 10 and Barbara 17, were slightly injured.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Honan, of San Francisco, passengers in the Ahern car, were hurt. Mrs. Ahern suffered cuts and lacerations.

A third car, driven by Elmer Bloomquist, of San Francisco, hurtled into the tangle. Neither Bloomquist or his wife were injured.

Ray George, popular Newark barber, proprietor of the shop at the Butler service station, was killed Sunday evening when the car in which he was riding, driv-

NURSERY HIGHWAY WORK PROGRESSING; GRADING UNDER WAY

Joining of New Strip To Alvarado Road Next Week

Preliminary grading on the extension of First street through the California Nursery Company property is progressing rapidly, with a crew of four men operating two large graders. The major part of the work is being done at the north end of the strip, where it will be necessay to tear up the already existing turn toward the railroad tracks, in order to smooth out the junction of the new road and the straight-away to Alvarado. The steeply banked turn of the old road will be eradicated.

Clearing the right-of-way through the nursery, down to the base from which the foundation will start, should be completed sometime late next week, it is said, after which actual building of the road will begin.

So quietly and steadily is the work progressing, that before the residents of Niles realize it, the time for the first car to pass through will have arrived. Although no definite plans have been laid, there are rumors in the town that some sort of a celebration will mark the opening date; a date from which a greater Niles will be built.

Niles Civic Group Is Officially Named To Hear NRA Complaints

GARDEN HOSE THIEF GETS NINETY DAYS SENTENCE

Caught in the act of pilfering a garden hose from the home of C. A. Franklin on Second street last Saturday night, T. E. Randall, is at the present time thinking it over in the county jail on the initial month of a three months sentence.

Randall was surprised by Constable O. W. Ebright after the latter had been hastily summoned by Franklin, who heard the thief removing the hose from the faucet.

Randall was seized after a short chase. He had tossed away a small automobile cushion, stolen from E. Smith's car. He admitted rifling the machine, and that of Jack Vieux, from which he took some personal belongings. The cars were parked in front of the Memorial Building on Second street.

Arraigned before Judge J. A. Silva, at the Niles Courthouse Monday, Randall pled guilty to a charge of petty theft brought by Franklin. Stating that he was unable to recall any reason for his act, the miscreant was sentenced to the county jail for ninety days.

It is reported that he had been employed during the summer at a Washington township packing house.

Commitee to Supervise Drawing of Protests In Locality

After a delay of several weeks, during which time the group was uncertain as to its function in the application of the NRA, the Niles Chamber of Commerce was officially delegated this week to receive complaints arising from the act and its enforcement in the town of Niles. Word was received from Allan C. Blaidsdell, chairman of the NRA Compliance Board of Alameda county, that the Niles body is to receive and pass initial judgment on all complaints coming from local sources. The group is further delegated to file complaints itself concerning violations of the act.

Instructions were read for the proper drawing of complaints, and the necessity of form stressed. All complaints are to be held as strictly confidential, the communication stated.

In answer to a letter written by the chamber some time ago, word was received Monday from the office of the surveyor, telling of the plans to complete the extension of First street as soon as possible.

H. L. Scott, chairman of the committee of arrangements for the first night meeting of the chamber, held last Wednesday night in the I. O. O. F. hall, said that the way in which the meeting went off is ample praise for the men who arranged it. He thanked all those

THIEF ENTERS HOME; PURLOINS PURSE AND ELUDES ALL PURSUERS

M. N. Crane Home Rifled Tuesday Afternoon at Five O'Clock

Entering the home of M. N. Crane, on Second street, Niles, Tuesday evening at about 5:30 o'clock, a prowler took a purse that was lying on the kitchen table. It contained ten dollars. The thief, in the midst of a hue and cry, fled from the house when seen by Mrs. Leland Crane, who had heard him moving around in the adjoining apartment. According to Mrs. M. N. Crane, her daughter-in-law, thinking the noise was being made by Martin Crane, walked into the apartment. She saw no one, and noticing several drawers open, became suspicious. She ran to the back door, just in time to get a glimpse of the miscreant as he disappeared. She called for assistance, then notified Constable O. W. Ebright, who rushed immediately to the scene. No trace was found of the man. Mrs. Ralph V. Richmond, who lives across the street from the Crane place avers that she saw a man run down the alley toward the Creek.

In answer to questions concerning articles taken by the marauder Mrs. Crane said that only the purse was missing. A wallet containing a considerable sum of money was overlooked by the thief.

An extensive search of the vicinity, and the outskirts of the town, failed to reveal any trace of the evil-doer. Authorities feel however, that a good enough description of him is had to make his arrest only a matter of time.

Toyon Branch Meets With Mrs. J. C. Shinn

The Toyon Branch of the Children's hospital of Alameda county met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Shinn Monday afternoon. There were about ten members present who spent the afternoon sewing.

The next meeting of the branch will be on the second Monday in October, at which time plans will be made for winter work.

Among those who were at the Monday meeting were; The Misses Lorraine and Dorothy Smith and Margaret Lowrie.

Scrapping The Constitution

The attempt to make a nation think and act as one man, is not so good as many would have us believe. Even in a grave emergency, it is not a bad idea to have some "troublesome" people around who question the perfection of a plan in operation to meet this portentous issue. You know, a democracy can never continue to exist where criticism is stifled. The criticism may be unjust, but it is necessary. Where it is injurious in one case in a dozen other instances it works to the ultimate good of mankind.

A lot of things get musty with age, and fashions change. There are some things, though, that never change. The Sermon on the Mount holds good today as it did on that memorial occasion when Christ uttered it, centuries ago.

The Magna Charta of the English was trampled upon and derided by the early kings of Great Britain, but it lived because it was the finest instrument of liberty that mankind had wrested from autocratic rule. Today it is still a magnificent document, and though the waves of absolutism and injustice beat against it for a thousand years it remains a tower of strength for people everywhere.

The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, like the Sermon on the Mount shall remain imperishable, because all their tenets were sound in prescribing the rights of man, and suggesting likewise his duty to mankind and to his God.

A new creed loose in the world would set aside the Bill of Rights, the Magna Charta, and the Constitution of the United States. Disciples of Mussolini, Stalin and Hitler insist that these torchlights of liberty are worn out with age, and dictatorships only can save the financial structures. To these the writer warns, "go slow" with this damnable doctrine. Dashing themselves against the Magna Charta, English king after king fled to Normandy or France to save his worthless neck, and some delaying too long went to the block, wiser but wise too late.

Again the writer says, watch your step—you who would scrap the Constitution of the United States, that instrument promulgated by our forefathers in 1776. It was an inspired declaration, guaranteeing your liberty and mine. It came out of the womb of persecution, and lit the torch of human rights, that torch which in succeeding years cast a beneficent ray around the world.

1,400,000 FOUND TO BE FEEBLE-MINDED

Disclosures Made in Sage Foundation Survey.

New York.—Fifteen per cent of the total population of the United States is intellectually subnormal or retarded.

More than one-half of the 800,000 hospital beds in America are set aside for the mentally ill.

More than 1,400,000 persons in America are feeble-minded.

These startling figures on mental health are contained in a report of a survey just completed by the Russell Sage foundation covering the work of organized social forces of the country.

Feeble-Minded a Problem.

To help meet the problem of the feeble-minded, 44 states maintain state institutions for their care. In 266 cities of the country subnormal children are enrolled in special classes.

The survey shows humanitarian activities of various charities and the new work added to their burden by the depression.

Family life is given prominent attention by social scientists. Marriage guidance bureaus have recently been established in the states of California, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania where persons contemplating marriage may secure advice and where those involved in marital difficulties may take their troubles.

The last three years have also shown a marked increase in the number of centers where birth control information is given, in accordance with the laws of the respective states. Over 100 such centers are reported in operation by Mrs. Margaret Sanger, as against approximately fifty-five reported by her in 1929.

Efforts to preserve the values of home life for the child where the mother has been widowed or the bread-earner otherwise removed are represented by mothers' aid laws which have been enacted in all states except Georgia and South Carolina. Homes involving 256,000 children were so aided in 1930. For mothers who must work, more than 800 day nurseries have been established in cities all over the United States, charging a nominal five to twenty-five cents a day. There have also been set up 4,178 child health centers.

Park Movement Grows.

In the fields of recreation and self-improvement, the park movement has grown until recent figures indicate 11,686 city parks representing property value exceeding $2,000,000,000. In addition to the city parks there are state parks in forty-three of the states, covering 7,000,000 acres; national parks covering 10,000,000 acres and national forests, most of which are open to recreational use, covering an additional 150,000,000 acres. Excluding the national forests, which are set apart more particularly for economic than recreational purposes, the remaining park acreage is nevertheless larger than the combined area of Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Finland Is Stirred Up Over "Language War"

Helsingfors, Finland.—Mounting opposition to use of both the Finnish and Swedish languages in affairs of government and at the University of Helsingfors has led to a "language war" here.

The Swedish population protests against proposals to make Finnish more outstanding as a class-room language at the university.

The students may now elect to receive instructions in practically all subjects in either Finnish or Swedish, a throwback to the days when Swedish was regarded as the official language of Finland.

Swedish also retains an important place in the government. In the Diet both languages are used, with interpreters to translate from one to the other. Government officials are required to know something of both languages, and the Swedish People's party has formal representation in the Diet.

Since 1918, however, when Finland gained independence, there has been an accelerating emphasis on development of a national culture in which Finland would be predominant. A special government committee is investigating claims that national economy could be served as well by removal of many of the Swedish professors at the university.

Summer Time

Finland is the latest starter north of the Equator so far as summertime is concerned. The clocks there do not go forward until June 20. South of the Equator, of course, summertime doesn't start until September or October, and carries on through our winter. In one country it's always daylight saving time. In Soviet Russia all clocks are one hour in advance permanently—summer and winter.

HOMESTEADERS CAN GET FARMS FOR $10

Small Down Payment for Land in Arkansas.

McCrory, Ark.—You can start your own "back to the farm" movement with a cash outlay of $10.

Hundreds of homesteaders—many of them formerly city folks—have obtained farms that they are homesteading and the cost of a one-room log cabin home comes as low as $1.50, while a palatial three-room log house costs $60.

All the actual cash a homesteader needs when he comes to take over government land in Woodruff county is $10, but he must have a little money, of course, to buy groceries and seeds until he can grow his own.

Farms up to 160 acres as the limit can be obtained from the government by living on them three years, or they can be bought outright for a dollar an acre. All former soldiers are given the land without donation fees.

The cost of a cabin home varies. There is Troy Moore's one-room cabin built for $1.50 out of red and white logs and with mud daubed in the cracks.

Or Mr. and Mrs. Jim Houk have a high-class home, costing them $60, and made out of split logs that fit so closely on the inside that a smooth wall is made. The Houk home has three rooms and a hall.

Until recently a homesteader was required to turn all money made back on his land, but a chemical company of Minneapolis needed large quantities of special timber in this section for alcohol, charcoal, and chemicals, and obtained permission from the Arkansas state land department for homesteaders to sell them timber and use the money for clothing and food.

Now as many as 100 cords a day are shipped, and the lumbermen make on an average of $1.25 a day.

Population Increase Is Put at 180,000 for '32

Chicago.—Population increase in the United States last year was the smallest since 1880 and the first year in more than a century in which cities did not show a gain, a report issued by the "American Journal of Sociology" disclosed. By 1940, the report predicted, the United States may have a population of only 130,000,000 and may show only a slight increase thereafter.

Rural population increased during the last year due largely to the depression, the report stated, but city population declined possibly as much as 470,000, it was estimated. The nation's population increased 180,000 last year, the report showed, a decrease of 5 per cent from 1931. Since 1932 there has been a decline of 60 per cent. If the growth continues at about 800,000 annually the rest of the decade, the report said, the population will be 131,000,000 in 1940, compared to 122,750,000 in 1930.

Coyotes Turn Wolflike, Veteran Hunter Asserts

Okanogan, Wash.—Coyotes in the upper reaches of the Cascade mountains are becoming more and more wolf-like every year, according to Boyd Hildebrand, well-known coyote and cougar hunter. He declares that the coyotes, driven high into the mountains by man's encroachment upon their domain, are traveling in packs. Their depredations will result in a 25 per cent decrease of the deer fawn crop this year. Hildebrand urges employment of competent hunters to eradicate the coyotes

Ancient Volume

In the archives of Fayence Municipal library a research student discovered a 56-page volume printed in that town in 1476, the year that Caxton set up his press in Westminster. This ancient volume is noted as coming from the press of "Fer and Clander," obviously men of Germanic origin who must have brought their art hot from the inspiration and lead of Gutenberg. The work of these men at Fayence, practically contemporary with that of the famous printers of Venice and elsewhere, seems to have escaped history. The book is the "Doctrines" of Alessander di Villadel, described as grammatical rules set in Latin verse.—Montreal Herald.

Alder a Useful Tree

The alder, ornamental tree of the stream edges, serves useful as well as ornamental purposes. For one thing, nature provides the alder to line the edges of streams to prevent the banks of the streams breaking down into the water, but it has other uses beneficial to mankind. The branches of the alder serve to provide the finest charcoal for the manufacture of gunpowder, while the small branches and the bark yield a substance of value to the dye-making industry. The wood of the alder is useful for watering troughs, piling and other purposes where resistance to the destructive action of water is important.

ONE PRODIGY MAKES GOOD WITH A BANG

Now Is Member of President's "Brain Trust."

Boston.—Do infant prodigies make good when they reach the work-a-day world?

Harvard university authorities once said "No," and proceeded to establish an inflexible age minimum for admission.

But now along comes one of the famed Harvard triumvirate of infant prodigies and makes good with a bang.

He is Adolph A. Berle, Jr., son of a Congregational minister, who entered Harvard at the age of thirteen years. He is now thirty-five years old, a professor at Columbia university and is taking an active part as a member of the "brain trust" advising President Roosevelt.

Ponder "New Deal."

So Harvard authorities have begun to consider whether they should not make a "new deal" and open the gates once more to unusual youthful applicants.

The "no infant" rule by the Crimson was made following the tragedy of a prodigy—William J. Sidis. He read and wrote at the age of two, passed the Harvard Medical school examination in anatomy at the age of seven, spoke German, Russian, French, English, Greek and Latin at eight, and expounded the fourth dimension at fourteen.

But in 1919 he broke down from overwork and was arrested for allegedly assaulting a policeman during a demonstration by Socialists in Boston.

Sidis dropped from sight until 1924, when he was discovered operating an adding machine in a Wall Street brokerage office for $23 a week.

The third member of the infant prodigy group was Norbert Weiner. He entered Tufts college at the age of eleven years and received his degree of doctor of philosophy at Harvard before he was nineteen years old. Today he is a full professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Treasury Assistant.

Berle came into the limelight with the advent of the new Roosevelt administration at Washington. When the banking crisis appeared on the financial horizon, Berle went to Washington as the right-hand man of Secretary of Treasury William H. Woodin.

At the age of eighteen years, Berle took his master's degree, when he normally should have been receiving his A. B. degree.

At the age of twenty-three, Berle was appointed an expert on international law on the staff of the League of Nations. He taught eugenics at Columbia for a time. He also taught economic law and psychology. As counsel for a large group of sugar companies he spent some time in the Dominican Republic of Haiti and became an expert on Central American affairs.

Wartime service included two years as a staff officer in Central America and later he was attached to the Russian division of the American commission to negotiate peace in Paris in 1919.

With the start of the Presidential campaign, Adolph Berle spent months gathering material and data that President Roosevelt used in his campaign speeches. It was Adolph Berle who with Representative Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, wrote the railroad corporation reorganization bill, termed the most revolutionary railroad proposal since the enactment of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Explaining Why Queen Mary Wears Those Hats

New York.—Queen Mary of England wears "those hats" because King George wants her to wear them, Hilda Grenier, long royal dresser to the queen, reveals in an article in a current magazine.

"She wears them," she writes, "for the reason that many a woman who is in love wears unbecoming clothes—because her husband likes them and because, contrary to public opinion, he is 'the boss' in his own household.

"It is King George himself who is responsible for those hats that have furnished humorists with material for more than a decade. The queen prefers large hats with brims and looks pretty in them, but the king says, 'I like to see my wife's hair,' and that settles the matter. He has always been immensely proud of the queen's beauty.

Club for Dogs Only

A Tail-Waggers club is conducted in Perth, West Australia. It is a rather exclusive affair, confining its membership solely to dogs. Their owners are excluded. The purpose of the organization is to restore missing dogs to their owners and as this is accomplished the dog's name is enrolled on the membership roster.

On Approval

By ROSA Z. MARIONONI

©, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

MEREDITH was walking home hurriedly, her feet rippling under her, her cheeks flushed, her heart beating queerly; she wondered if the two gowns which were to be delivered on approval had preceded her home; she hoped they had, and wished they had not.

As Meredith walked along she felt conscious of two voices in her debating the issue, which stood out before her. One thin, care-free voice was saying: "There is no harm in your wearing the lace gown tonight. Nothing will happen to it. Elmer will be proud of you before his friends." And another voice, a worried little voice, was saying: "What if something should happen to the gown while you wear it tonight and Elmer should find out you are wearing a dress which you do not intend buying? He is so scrupulously honest, he would never forgive such an underhanded action on your part."

Tonight was the first time since their marriage that Elmer had dared invite Mr. Sanders to his home. Mr. Sanders was the district manager of the company which employed Elmer.

When she had told Elmer about her not having a dress fit to wear at dinner, Elmer had quickly suggested that she buy a new one.

"I noticed in the paper that Lander's are having a sale," Meredith had said. "Dinner dresses priced at nineteen ninety-eight."

That very morning she had gone shopping and while trying on some of the dinner dresses priced at $19.98, the saleswoman had been called away. As Meredith waited for her, she had noticed an exquisite gown of blue lace over silver cloth hanging on a wall peg. She had glanced at the size and price tag. The gown was her size, but it was marked fifty-nine dollars. An insidious thought had entered her mind. "I could have this lace gown sent home on approval, wear it tonight, then return it."

When that evening the clock struck six, Meredith stood before her bedroom mirror gowned in lace and silver. As Elmer entered the room to say that Mr. Sanders had arrived, he remained breathless, looking at her.

"You look marvelous!" he told her. When they entered the little drawing room, Meredith's heart felt queerly cool as Elmer said with high pride in his voice, "Mr. Sanders, this is my wife."

"How do you do," she smiled; and thought, "I feel as if I were a thief."

It was about nine o'clock when Elmer suddenly said: "I think I hear the baby crying," and jovially, "Mr. Sanders, you must see our baby! You must!" Then turning to Meredith, "Go and bring in the little rascal. I want to show him off." Meredith went to the bedroom. The baby had stopped crying, she took him gently in her arms, afraid he'd crush her dress.

Mr. Sanders proved interesting to Bobby, for he had a gold watch chain and sparkling spectacles. Elmer was beaming. Mr. Sanders tried to be gracious. Suddenly the baby began to bob himself up and down in Meredith's arms. Mr. Sanders' spectacles had attracted his attention, his chubby hands reached toward Mr. Sanders' face, the gentleman slanted backward. "Better take the baby back to bed," suggested Elmer.

As Meredith turned away, the baby gave one high-pitched cry, the tiny fist closed about the mother's lace bodice, tearing, pulling.

Meredith ran into the bedroom, the child in her arms.

Time passed, the baby fell asleep, the young mother kept crying. When Elmer tiptoed into his wife's bedroom, and gently touched her shoulder, she looked up at him, her eyes brimming with tears, her lips trembling, her face swollen from crying.

"What is the matter? You've been weeping," exclaimed Elmer.

Elmer sat beside his wife attempting to console her, but the more he tried to pacify her, the more she clung to him and wept. Suddenly, she sank her head on his shoulder and told him all, and when she had finished she was only conscious of Elmer kissing her and whispering, "My poor little girl." Elmer felt a protective pity toward his wife. He told her he would fix matters. In the morning he would go to the agent and try to have his insurance payment postponed a few months—Elmer was worried, but he did not wish Meredith to know how much.

Meredith rose to her feet, smiling through the tears, opened the closet door. "Look, here is the other gown, the one I should have worn," she said," pointing to the marigold satin dress. "I'd better put it back in its box before something happens to it, too."

"Yes, let's," said Elmer. "I'll take it back myself in the morning."

As Meredith reached under the bed and pulled out the boxes, the sales ticket fell to the floor. Elmer picked it up and glanced at it. For a moment his face became tense, then his lips parted. "Look at this! Read," he cried, pointing to the sales ticket. "Two dresses on approval. Both priced nineteen ninety-eight!"

Roadways of Glass

In the Yellowstone park there is a rock foundation, which in its composition resembles glass. In fact, it is said to be glass and is known as the Obsidian cliff. Some years ago the roadway was made through the rock by a shelf-like cut around its surface and this roadway takes its name from the rock. It is called the Obsidian highway. The roadbed is perfect and always smooth and durable. In Europe they make substantial highways by mixing ground glass with the cement.

"Smoking Lamps"

In the old days of the navy, before matches were invented, a lamp was lighted at certain times aboard ship when smoking was permitted. All smokers got their pipes lighted from this lamp. It was easy to regulate smoking in those days, for all that was necessary to stop smoking was to extinguish the "smoking lamp." Even today when smoking is permitted the word is passed that "the smoking lamp is lighted," and when smoking is not permitted "the smoking lamp is out."

Metal in the Radio

A great variety of metals, minerals and alloys enters into the construction of the radio. Steel, in strips and bars, leads the metals in quantity, totaling 110,000 tons a year. Copper, in sheets and as wire, follows with 12,000 tons, with copper alloys accounting for 4,000 tons more. Tin in foil form and tinplate aggregates 1,800 tons. Nickel alloys, used in tubes, amounts to 1,500 tons, and zinc totals 1,200 tons.

Gardeners Plan to Use Electricity on Worms

Lewiston, Idaho.—Truck gardeners of this area are beginning to look with more than amusement upon a device rigged up by George McMahan and Dr. John McCoy, anglers, to capture angleworms. The men use two rods, electrically charged to bring angleworks to the surface in great numbers. Now, gardeners are considering the possibility of ridding their plots of cutworms by the use of a large "digger," built on the same principles.

Tap Dancing in College

Bananas Grow on Large Plants; Not on Trees

The banana is a large plant rather than a tree. It is perpetuated by sprouts or suckers which, in the commercial cultivation of bananas, are cut loose from the parent plant when these shoots have attained a height of three feet or so and transplanted.

The banana begins to bloom in about two years after being established. The flower bud is a large heart-shaped formation which develops from 50 to 150 blossoms—from which a bunch containing as many bananas will grow.

The plant grows from 10 to 40 feet in height, bearing at its top a whorl of broad, ornamental leaves. But the stalk bears fruit but once and then dies down, to be replaced by the sprouts, two or three of which are allowed to bear, the others being transplanted or destroyed.

There are many varieties of the banana plant and all quite similar in appearance and habit. The variety most commonly cultivated is known as the Martinque. The red variety is the baracoa or Red Jamaica.

In spite of these West Indian names the banana plant is not thought to be a native of America. It is thought to have originated in India, although it is cultivated in all tropical countries.

The fruit ripens on the tree, if left there, but it quickly spoils thereafter. Tree-ripened bananas are flavorable, but for export it is necessary to pick the fruit while still somewhat green.

The Pictured Rocks along Lake Superior are not inscribed, nor is there anything man-made about them. They are a natural curiosity, a series of sandstone cliffs extending for about seven miles along the south shore of Lake Superior. They rise from the water's edge, often vertically, to a height varying from 50 to 300 feet, and constitute a spectacular exhibition of the eroding powers of water, while brilliant hues are given them by certain minerals.

The cliffs have been worn by the waves into many strange and fantastic shapes, as of castles, towers, chapels, gates, sails and profiles. Their hues are grays and greens, amber and vermilion, blue and yellow. They extend westward from the sand hills of Sables, 30 miles west of the Soo, to Munising harbor.

At one point a stream plunges 175 feet sheer over the cliffs, as the Silver Cascades. There are scores of other lovely waterfalls along the walls. This region is the heart of Hiawatha's country, and the wigwam of Nokomis stood near Munising, and Longfellow describes the site:

Westward by the Big-Sea-Water,
Came unto the rocky headlands,
To the Pictured Rocks of sandstone
Looking over lake and landscape.

Alaska Once in Tropics

Scientists have discovered that Alaska once enjoyed a subtropical climate, judging from the coal found there. Vast undiscovered deposits of coal are believed to exist just below the surface of the ground in many parts of the territory.

Relieving Swimmer's Cramps

Muscle cramps, which sometimes afflict swimmers, usually affect the muscles in the back of the upper leg, the calf of the lower leg and the foot. All of these may be relieved without asking anyone for help, according to a writer in Safety Education Magazine. If the cramp is in the calf of the leg, submerge and seize the cramped muscle with thumbs and fingers of both hands. Squeeze the muscle with both hands as though trying to force the thumb and finger of one hand through to meet those of the other. This usually relieves the cramp at once and it rarely returns. Go ashore as quickly as possible and massage the muscle well.

When to Sleep

The doctors just can't seem to get together. One group says that sleeping at night is just a habit and that sleep at any time during the 24 hours is just as beneficial. Another group says that an hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after midnight. Both sides are merely giving opinions. A German doctor made a report to the medical profession after noticing the reaction of a change in sleeping and studying hours of only 17 patients. Common sense would indicate that the actual hours have nothing to do with it, but that a person sleeps sounder at night because it is quieter.

"An Apple a Day" Delusion

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away" possesses nothing of merit except the rhyme, says How to Live (Life Extension Institute). Many a green apple has brought the doctor in a hurry. A good, medium-size, ripe apple contains about 96 calories and will digest in an hour and a half. It supplies sugar, calcium, phosphorus and iron. These facts indicate that it is suitable for human food. The apple also contains a considerable amount of vitamin C and some vitamins A and B. It has no special curative or disease preventive qualities, but it is a desirable part of an average diet.

FIREMEN'S DANCE TICKET SALE IS GRATIFYING

That firemen are interesting people will be demonstarted some time today when the Niles department, realizing the public interest in fire engines, will raise considerable ruckus in the town to advertise the firemen's dance, slated for Saturday night, and rumored as one of the outstanding affairs of the fall season.

According to Clarence Crane, the advance ticket sale has been gratifying, and if it continues the firemen will have to employ shoehorns to get the enthusiasts in.

Renown of the firemen's affair has spread far and wide, and a large number of people are expected to attend from Oakland and other bay cities. In fact, several cars full of pleasure-bent Oaklanders stopped at the darkened Garden of Allah last Saturday night and demanded to know when "that firemen's jig was."

One hundred percent behind the department, Niles will turn out en masse, to return in some measure the services of the firemen.

SCOUT LIFE-SAVERS MAY GET MEDALS FOR HEROISM

According to word received from George Coit, general chairman of court of honor for boy scouts in Washington township, a special court will be held at the Niles Grammar school at 8:00 on Friday evening, (tomorrow night,) to investigate the life saving activities of Jack Townsend and Lawrence Pine, Niles scouts who saved the life of twelve-year-old John Neves, Decoto boy, who was drowning in the gravel pit hole west of Niles on July 12.

The findings of the meeting tomorrow night will be forwarded to the highest court in the land at Washington, D. C., for ultimate decision. The approval of the findings, and the recommendation of the high command will result in the two scouts receiving the highest honor that can come to a boy scout.

The meeting is open to the public and everyone is invited to attend. Later in the year another meeting will be held for the presentation of the medals.

Buy NOW! Before prices advance

Cost of all materials that go into gas appliances have gone up. Labor costs too have risen. But prices have not yet risen on gas heating appliances. Be wise—buy gas heating appliances now.

SINCE the advent of Natural Gas into Northern California less than four years ago, 153,000 installations of Natural Gas heating appliances have been made.

Further, nine out of ten heating appliances of all types purchased today by our customers, are for use with Natural Gas, the naturally better fuel.

Think of that! These thousands of people, men and women, who have had experience with many types of heating equipment and fuels register an almost universal acceptance today for Natural Gas heat.

There are two outstanding reasons for this preference for Natural Gas fuel—convenience and cleanliness.

Natural Gas is the convenient fuel to use. It is piped directly to the appliance where it is burned. It is easy to turn on, easy to control. And absolutely carefree and quiet in operation.

Natural Gas is the clean fuel to use. It burns with 100% combustion. Residue or deposits are unknown with Natural Gas fuel. That means clean chimney flues and chimneys, cleaner roofs, trees, gardens, neighborhoods.

Why not plan now to know real winter comfort by having Natural Gas heating installed in your home? There is a type and size appliance that meets every individual home need, and at a price every home can afford. Get the facts for your home today.

CORNHUSKERS LOSE TO MENLO, SEVEN TO NOTHING

Defeated at the hands of a heavier team Friday afternoon at Menlo, the Cornhuskers showed a definite improvement over their form of last week when they walloped the second team of Roosevelt high.

Beaten 7 to 0, members of the team played fine ball, and team work, although far from smooth, was vastly improved.

The same faults in the backfield were present although modified, outstanding among them the slow starting of the trucks on line plays. Time and again Dinsmor and Sinclair would tear open a hugh hole and the back would fail to get through it before it closed up.

The score came in the second quarter when Washington fumbled on its own 42 yard stripe. Menlo recovered, and with a series of line drives marched down the field to score the only points of the day. Raso, Cornhusker safety man saved the day twice for Washington when he tackled Menlo backs who were on the loose and touchdown-bound. Dinsmor and Sinclair, side by side on the right side of the line at guard and tackle positions were far and away the outstanding linesmen of the day. Dinsmore made 11 tackles almost enough for two games.

Washington's passing attack was horrible, none completed out of nine tossed. Only one however, was intercepted.

Menlo made 6 first downs to the Cornhuskers' two, and gained 150 yards from scrimmage against 86 for Washington. Washington lost 70 yards by penalties.

With a little more work on passing, and some concentration on line charge, the Cornhuskers will be a dangerous team. The backfield did fine work on defense.

DRIVER CRASHES AS SANTA CLARA'S TEAM YELLS

Santa Clara's football team, besides being the direct cause of California's defeat last Saturday, was the indirect cause of a humorocs automobile accident in Centerville last Saturday morning.

Driving through the town in their huge bus, the Santa Clarans, hooting and pushing the horn button, so frightened Joe F. Allemao, of Clarksburg, that he lost control of his car and very nearly shoved Dr. Holman's house off its foundations. Missing the fire plug on the corner, Allemao's car grazed the Dr.'s professional shingle, ran over shrubs and lawn, then bounded back into the street where it collided with a Model T Ford belonging to a Decoto man. No one was injured in the mishap, although Mrs. Allemao was very badly frightened.

Pleasanton Colt Wins Silver Cup At Horse Show

A young yearling colt owned by C. Hartwell, at the Santa Rita Stock Farm, won a silver cup at a horse show held at San Mateo Sunday.

This colt was classed as the best looking in its class and went through all its trots in top form.

The young horses at the farm are being trained by James Giorgis who takes much pride in his work to see that the young colts are given the best care possible.

COUNTRY CLUB TO HEAR MISS E. SANDHOLT

The Country Club of Washington township will meet for the first business session of the season Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse in Centerville. Plans will be laid for future meets of the year.

Following the regular business meeting, slated to start at 2:00 p. m., the group will listen to a talk by Miss E. Marie Sandholdt, recently returned from a tour around the world. Miss Sandholdt, possessing an unusually penetrative mind, is certain to relate items and customs of interest that would entirely escape the casual observer. She has stated several times since her return that the Orient held a particular interest for her, and it is on this part of her trip that she will place emphasis in her talk Tuesday.

The musical program will consist of a series of Classical accordian renditions by John Accinelli, talented Alvarado player. The musical entertainment has been arranged by the music committee, headed by Mrs. Townsend.

TOWNSHIP ENTRIES COLLECT PRIZES AT STATE FAIR

County Total of Awards Creates New Record This Year

New records for winning first prizes in the agricultural and floricultural divisions at the present California State Fair were made by Alameda county according to the official report filed with the Board of Supervisors by the directors of the Alameda County Development Commission.

From the great Washington township, from the gardens of Eden township and from other sections of Alameda county the products were entered.

In the plant vegetable division the following products captured first honors with the blue ribbon award, celery, spinach, bell peppers, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes.

Placing first in their respective class were the Alameda entries of gladioli, carnations, roses, zinnias, chrysanthemums, dahlias, cacti succulents, rock garden plants, flowering plants in bloom, everlasting flowers.

Salt from the refineries along the bay shore at Alvarado and Newark won first place. Alameda county produces more than seventy-five per cent of the salt consumed on the entire Pacific slope.

Listed among the expert growers from the county who did their part in displaying flowers and vegetables at the fair were Mrs. Oscar Star, Mission San Jose; Mrs. George Roeding, Jr., and Mrs. B. E. Amyx, Niles; Mrs. B. E. Sledge, Elmhurst; R. Tamini, Castro Valley; H. P. GREAT DAY SLATED FOR NEWARK SUNDAY

Plans for the gala day, at Newark Sunday, when the composite Legion-Lions baseball team will try to upset the Townshiy champions, the Newark J & F's, have progressed to the point of perfection, according to Chick Santos, Centerville Lion, under whose hat the idea first took form.

As previously stated, the Lions are not content with furnishing a baseball classic to the customers; they have gone much farther than that, and those attending may expect to see, bands, drum corps, banners, boy scouts and last but not least the Lion mascot, a real, firebreathing mountain lion, owned by Sid Snow.

The day has been arranged for the purpose of replenishing the tobacco fund for the Veterans at the Livermore hospital. It is a good and deserving cause, and this coupled with the superlative entertainment promised Sunday, should draw crowds, and more.

Miss Sara Smith, of Oakand, spent several days last week with Miss Elizabeth Dusterberry.

ED DOLSTRA TO HEAD AMADOR HIGH SENIORS

Lincoln was chosen as vice president, Annette Giorgis, secretary, Lorna Blacow, treasurer, and Merle Kamp, student council representative all are of Pleasanton.

Firemen's Association To Meet at Centerville

The Alameda County Association of Firemen will meet at the Hotel Gregory in Centerville, on the evening of October 12, for the regular monthly gathering.

A complete evening, including banquet and entertainment is scheduled, according to Frank Madruga, assistant chief. He stated that more than 150 firemen will attend.

The dinner, a nine course one, will be served, with the additional benefit of quantities of beer.

A large delegation of Knights of Columbus attended the initiation and banquet held at the Oakland council Sunday.

Junior Traffic Patrol To Attend Football Games

All members of the Pleasanton Junior Traffic Patrol who are twelve years of age and younger will be given passes to all the football games to be played at the Berkeley campus, it was announced by highway patrolman, George Barron, who is directing the Junior traffic patrols in the east bay.

Officer Barron helped organize the Pleasanton traffic patrol under the sponsorship of the Pleasanton Junior Chamber of Commerce, last spring. He is now instructing the officers of the Livermore Junior Traffic Patrol which was organized recently, and will help organize one in Mt. Eden soon.

ALUMNI-WUHS TILT PROMISES TO BE GREAT MIX-UP

The Cornhuskers of Washington Union High school will test their strength, and also new ideas, Friday afternoon, when they tangle with Red Blacow's Alumni Outfit, at 3:30 on the W. U. H. S. Field.

Jess Regli sees an opportunity to upset the Alumni for once, and he is sparing no pains to make it good. On the other hand, Blaiow is intent on keeping the Alumni record unsmirched. His team, made up of stars of past years, is a lethal comination, even if slightly short of breath. The Alumni lineup, somewhat tentative, is as follows: Ends, Ferry and Fontes; Tackles, Bettencourt and Swanson; Guards, Brown and Logan; Center, Beoras or Trout; Halfbacks, Nakamura and Kearns; Full, Gronley, and Quarterback, Ruschin.

Why did you buy this NEWSPAPER?

SUPPOSING that, beginning tomorrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a furore the public would make "News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients." All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements.

Then you would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this greatest age in the world's history.

Advertising is the NEWS of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world, AND ALL WORKING FOR YOU.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best there is in everything and telling the world about it.

Read advertising. Keep abreast of today. Advertising furnishes you with facts and opportunities that otherwise you would never know.

Sportsmen to Meet In Niles October Third

The recently formed Washington township chapter of Sportsmen, Inc., will meet in Niles again on October 3, at which time new members will be informed of the purpose of the club. On the same evening the location of club grounds, for rifle and pistol ranges, will be discussed.

Considerable enthusiasm has been shown among local sportsmen over the new association, the purpose of which is to eradicate practices threatening the existence of game birds in California, and at the same time to divorce politics from the drawing and enforcing of sensible laws.

RAIN THREATENED GRAPES, TOMATOES SUNDAY EVENING

Winter stole a march on Washington township Sunday night and spread a light drizzling rain over the country-side, catching luckless motorists with leaky tops, and still more luckless farmers with large red tomatoes still on the vine. Damage to the crop, however, was slight, the drizzle ceasing before the ground was thoroughly wet.

Nearby cities reported moist weather, a real rain falling in Oakland.

According to Professor Cheney, University of California savant, the Pacific coast has reached the peak of slow curve to a colder climate, and although he predicts a progressively warmer climate as the years pass, he intimates that snow may not be an unusual thing. So batten the hatches, and have the old red flannels in readiness.

Mrs. J. C. Shinn, Jr. Feted At Kitchen Shower Friday

Mrs. Jack Williamson gave a kitchen shower in honor of Mrs. J. C. Shinn, Jr., last week. About thirty attended, to make the acquaintance of Mrs. Shinn, and to welcome her into the community.

The affair was beautifully appointed, and refreshments were served late in the afternoon. The bride received miscellaneous kitchen utensils.

WOMEN'S CLUBS TO MEET IN ALAMEDA TODAY

The first meeting of the year of Alameda County Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at Adelphian Club in Alameda on September, 28th at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Wallace Meracle of Alameda will make her first appearance as president of the County Federation at this time and will present the State Chairman of Legislation, Mrs. Agnes McEuen who will come from her home in southern California to talk to the Eastbay women on NRA. Mrs. McEuen will explain the various phases of the act and will preside at a round table discussion following her talk.

The afternoon session will feature reports of the club presidents and a talk on the educational value of the Century of Progress Exposition given by Mrs. L. G. Campbell, a member of the Lakeview Club who visited the fair this summer.

The high light of the program will be an address given by Prof. Earle G. Lindsley, director of Chabot Observatory, who will have as his subject "Seeing Things at Night." Prof. Lindsley is being presented through the "See and Know" section of the Montclair Women's Club, of which Mrs. Andrew C. Stewart is chairman.

MANY MOURN DEATH OF MISS MARGERET LAUDENSLAGER, 28

Teacher Passes After Lingering Illness Last Week

Margaret Laudenschlager, beloved Newark school teacher who died September 2, 1933, in an Oakland hospital after a hurried operation climaxing a fatal attack of colonitis, is now resting in peace beneath the green turf in Oak Hill cenetery, that earthly paradise south of San Jose; but her spirit will live on in the memories of her hundreds of friends in Alameda county. If kind words spoken by friends before and after death, if words of praise spoken by those in charge of the funeral services, if the profusion of floral tributes, the like of which is seldom showered upon one so lowly in life, count for one's earthly reward for a noble life, then Margaret Laudenschlager in death is to be envied. No splendid life could have had a more beautiful setting than her's had when the casket was lowered into the tomb. Rays of light from a western sun near the horizon glinted through the huge mound of gorgeous flowers, speaking a final tribute to a mortal being whose deeds of kindness had been just as resplendent. Like the beautiful flower that is sent to spread its frangrance during the summer and then wilt, she, too, died just as the summer ended.

Margaret Ladenschlager was born in Leavenworth, Kansas, April 2, 1905. After passing the greater part of her girlhood in Kansas and Missouri, she moved with her parents to Newark in the fall of 1921. She attended her senior high school year in the Washington Union High school and then entered San Jose Teachers' College, from which institution she was graduated two years later. Immediately after graduation, she was employed in the primary department of the Newark Grammar school where she was under tenure at the time of her death.

The writer of this obituary probably knew Miss Laudenschlager as well as any other person outside the immediate family circle. She was a young woman of lovable disposition and of sterling character. Always cheerful, always smiling, and never tiring in her eagerness to meet her school tasks, she was a true teacher and a faultless model and companion for the little ones who came under her guidance. It seems that nature predestined her for the role she played in the great life drama as she was particularly gifted in art and music. In the school she organized the first sewing class, and until illness checked her hand she made the work more popular as the time sped by. As a teacher, so well did she plan her work and so well did she carry out her plans that her supervisors learned to respect her as a leader. Her vacant place in the school will not be an easy one to fill.

Miss Laudenschlager's social work did not end with the school. No part of her life was lived apart from the district in which she labored. She organized the Newark Camp Fire Girls' troop, and for a number of years was its leader. That work brought her recognition outside her county. She was an ardent worker in the Newark Blue Bird Club, an organization renowned for its charitable work. She was an active and valued worker in the Presbyterian church of which she was a member.

Funeral services were conducted in the Newark Presyterian church Friday afternoon by Rev. E. E. Mathes, assisted by Rev. H. McCall, a former pastor of the church in conjunction with a ritual by the Eastern Star lodge. A brief service was held at the grave by Rev. Mathes.

Margaret Laudenschlager is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William Laudenschlager, of Newark, a sister, Mildred E., of Newark, a brother F. William, Oakland. She also leaves to mourn her earthly death her fiance, Thor Nordvik, prominent young druggist of Alvarado.

Alvarado's first railroad was the South Pacific Coast Narrow Guage, constructed in 1878, giving quick communication to Oakland.

EDDIE CANTOR GETS LAUGHS IN "KID FROM SPAIN"

Tonight is the last showing of the superlative film, "Double Harness," starring Ann Harding and William Powell. Critics are unanimous in declaring that this is one of the best pictures of the year.

Richard Barthelmess returns in a greater role than ever in "Heroes for Sale," coming for two days, Friday and Saturday nights. An added feature will be "The Circus Queen Murder," starring Adolphe Menjou and Greta Nissen.

October 1, 2 and 3 brings to the Hayward screen a picture that no one can afford to miss. Eddie Cantor in "The Kid From Spain," Eddie gets himself into all kinds of trouble when he impersonates a famous bull fighter. He ends up as the national idol.

Al Jolson heads the cast in the 1933 version of "Hallelujah I'm a Bum," coming Wednesday and Thursday, October 4 and 5. Harry Langdon, non-plussed and vague as ever, adds to the fun. This is one of Jolson's favorite roles, and it furnishes superb entertainment.

MORE ON MEN'S CLUB MEETING

do not have the good natured son as their task master.

Ernie Nevers, former Stanford star and one-time All-American, spoke briefly on football, in its modern sense.

Entertainment for the evening was in the hands of Frank Bristol, able toastmaster, who, with three attractive entertainers spiced the meeting perfectly. Piano, vocal and accordian solos, filled out the program, with the added touch of excellent dancing.

After the speeches and entertainment, when the rival coaches had returned to their respective lairs to plan subtle ways of slitting each other's throats, the members of the Men's Club settled down to the business of electing officers for the year. The following were chosen: President, Allen G. Norris; Vice-president, E. Dixon Bristow; Secretary, A. Rathbone; P. C. Hansen was re-elected as treasurer.

Statewide Search Is Being Made To Check On Business Licenses

ALL MERCHANTS MUST SECURE LICENSES TO DO BUSINESS

A statewide check-up of retail merchants to determine whether they have obtained licenses under the new sales tax act began last week on orders of the State Board of Equalization.

In Alameda and Contra Costa counties, sixteen deputies were carrying out the Board's order under the direction of Harry A. Mosher, sales tax administrator for the two counties.

According to a telegram received by Mosher from Fred E. Stewart, member of the State Board of Equalization, thousands of merchants throughout the State have neglected to obtain their permits.

"The Board will invoke penalties against those failing to comply with licensing requirements of the sales tax act," Stewart informed Mosher.

According to Section 12 of the sales tax act, "it shall be unlawful for any person to engage in or transact business as a retailer within this State unless a permit or permits shall have been issued to him" within thirty days after the effective date of the act, which was August 1st.

Each day in which a retailer continues to do business without a license from the Board of Equalization constitutes a separate offense, subject to a separate penalty, Mosher explained today.

License applications are filed directly with the Board of Equalization and must be accompanied by a fee of $1. License applications may be obtained from Mosher's office in the Financial Center Building, Oakland.

The State Board of Equalization is empowered under the law to close up retail establishments which neglect to obtain a permit. This should have immediate attention of every retailer in the district.

Race Horses Arrive In Pleasanton

With the arrival in Pleasanton Thursday morning of a special express train of six cars carrying four score of thoroughbred racing horses, stable accommodations at the Pleasanton Training park are taxed to capacity. Every one of the stalls are now occupied, and according to the management of the training park, a number of horses have been quartered in stables adjoining the race track.

The largest shipment in Thursday's arrivals was made by H. D. Palmer, whose horses occupied three express cars.

The animals will winter in Pleasanton, where, according to their owners, ideal conditions prevail for the training of the thoroughbreds. With a plentiful supply of good water, the finest red oat hay in the world and the mild climate, race horses are said to thrive.

Amador Freshmen Party To Be Held At Gym Friday Eve

Freshmen of the Amador Valley high school will be the honored guests at a reception dance to be held at the high school gym tomorrow night.

In the past years it has been the custom to make the Freshmen do funny stunts on this night but that has been dropped instead they will be honored at the dance.

Music will be furnished by a three piece orchestra of Oliver Campos, of Irvington. Dancing will start at eight and will end at twelve. A small fee will be charged to those attending with the exception of the Freshmen. Everyone attending will need an invitation except the alumni and the parents of the students.

Those working on the committee on the dance are Bud Madsen, chairman, Helen Rivolta, Edwina Rodrigues and the two faculty advisors, Miss Dorothy Leonard and Mrs. Anita Smith.

In the afternoon an athletic contest will be held between the Sophomore and Freshmen girls and the Freshmen and Sophomore boys. The boys contest will be held during seventh and eighth periods.

In October, 1901, the Standard Electric Light Company brought its line into Mission San Jose from the Blue Lakes. The old line still stands. It can be seen along Stockton Pass.

FOOTBALL SCRIMMAGE IS HELD AT AMADOR

About twenty-five football players from the San Ramon high school, at Danville, journeyed to the Amador Valley high school where they held a practice scrimmage with the Dons last Friday afternoon.

The Dons started the reserve lineup against the Danville boys with the result that the Dons were outweighed by Danville Varsity. Through a series of line plays the Danville boys managed to score the first touchdown against the Dons in the first quarter. Danville failed to convert.

The Dons chose to receive on the next kick off. The Dons attack was not very smooth and they lacked proper timing with the line failing to make the holes. However, as the quarter went along they adjusted themselves to Danville's style of attack and both teams kept the ball in the middle of the field. The second quarter the Varsity went in and immediately slowed up the Danville desire to go places. The Don Varsity was far more active in tackling and stopping Danville's plays behind the line of scrimmage. In addition they made plays work that the reserves were unable to gain ground by.

With Bernard and Dutra alternating in carrying the ball for large gains, the Dons were in position to score. Dutra carried the ball over to score the first touchdown for the Dons in the second quarter.

At the beginning of the third quarter all the third string of Dons were sent into the game to play against a squad of Freshmen and sophomores from Danville. Both teams certainly tried hard and it was spectacular watching them smear each others plays. Neither team had a smooth attack but they made up for this in their defensive tactics.

This group played a full quarter and part of the last when second team substitutes from both teams were gradually being sent to replace the third string of players.

In the last quarter Danville managed to get the ball through the Don one foot line. At this time some of the Don Varsity players were sent in expecting to stop the score. In the next two plays Danville lost three yards each time but on the last down they got around the Don reserve right end for another touchdown to their credit.

The Dons decided to even this score and started up the field but were stopped midway on several occasions, however, Danville was no longer threatening to score. With but two minutes left to play, a long pass from Dutra to Pedri gained forty yards, and by rushing four more plays the Dons got the ball to within two inches of the tieing score. However, games end regardless of how critical the situations may be. Summorizing the results showed that Danville is stronger than the Amador reserves and almost as good as the Varsity. Since the Varsity played slightly over one quarter of the game Friday and since the touchdowns were made when the Varsity was not on the field the Varsity players can't be charged with the defeat.

A return game has been arranged to be played at Danville a month from last Friday. The Danville team featured straight power bucks with enough fast wide end runs to keep the Don ends in hot water. The lighter Dons depended on deception and when their plays were properly executed and timed unusually large gains resulted.

CLASS OFFICERS ARE ELECTED AT AMADOR

At the class meeting held recently at the Amador Valley high school Arthur Potvin, of Pleasanton, was elected president of the Freshman class.

Clifford Paulo was selected as vice president, Chesley Patterson, treasurer, and Ambrose Regalia, secretary. Adelaide Bairos was elected to be class representative to the student council.

At a meeting held by the sophomores Donald Graham was elected president of his group. The remainder of his staff will consist of Joseph Gibson, vice president; Albert A. Nolan, secretary; and Edwina Rodrigues, treasurer. Elva Quaglia was chosen to be class representative to the student council.

Alameda County Farm Bureau Picnic Is Held Near Hayward

PLEASANTON 4-H BOYS AND GIRLS ARE PRESENTED WITH PINS

Several hundred members of the Alameda County Farm Bureau, Farm Home Departments and Four-H boys' and girls' clubs participated in a joint picnic outing at Bjornsen's park, Crow canyon recently.

The affair was honoring the fifteenth anniversary of the Alameda County Farm Bureau. It was also achievement day for the Alameda county 4-H boys and girls clubs. All work done by the members during the past year was displayed in the afternoon.

At five thirty in the evening a picnic supper was served. Following the supper all 4-H clubs presented short skits. 4-H club members were presented with pins for their work done during the past year. Richard Kennedy, state farm bureau director, made the presentations.

All farm home departments in the county presented a pageant of early California history. The Pleasanton group represented the early Spanish era. Miss Geraldine George did a Spanish dance. Those taking part in the pageant wore old Spanish costumes. They were the Mesdames Sam Paskewitz, Andrew Greve, Henry Kruse, B. F. Newton, Eugene Doucette, Peter Nielsen, J. Lewis, Carolyn Bedsworth, Charles Fiorio, A. B. Casterson, and the Misses Pauline Kruse and Phyllis Doucette, all of Pleasanton.

The Mesdames Sam Paskewitz and Andrew Greve presented a short skit. They were the first 4-H club members in Minnesota.

The girls receiving pins were Jeanette Huested, Winifred Doucette, Elsie Hanifen, Elaine Andresen, Genevieve Andresen, June Sorensen, Leona Willis and Rose Alice Brown, all first year; Buelah Sanderson, second year; Lorrene Stevenson, third year; and Anna Ruth Hanifen and Dorothy Nielsen, fourth year pins, all of Pleasanton.

The boys were Jack Fiorio, Bob Casterson, William, Robert, and Harvey Dickenson, Arthur Rosa, Richard and William Stahl, Stewart Allison, Billie Hall, John Francisco, Layton Hanifen, and Clyde Siggins, all first year pins, all of Pleasanton.

Pleasanton Lawn Party Draws Large Crowd

A large crowd attended the Pleasanton Ladies Aid lawn party held at the Presbyterian church lawn last Thursday. According to Mrs. W. T. Nilson, chairman, the affair was a great success.

The purpose of the affair was to raise funds for the society which will be turned over to the church funds.

A luncheon was served at twelve. Refreshments were served during the afternoon. In the afternoon a program was presented. This committee was under the direction of Mrs. Claude Smallwood, Mrs. Fred Chadbourne, and Mrs. Charles A. Gale.

The Amador high school band under the direction of Harry Tripp played the opening numbers. Next was a trombone solo by Jack Kolln accompanied by Dorothy Kolln, at the piano. Oscar de Reschke rendered several vocal numbers. Mrs. Mona Helms, of Livermore, also sang a few selections. Miss Shirley Blacet rendered a few violin solos accompanied by Miss Dorothy Davis at the piano.

Those working on the luncheon committee were the Mesdames G. T. Fleming, C. Haas, Henry Kruse, J. C. Tompkins, A. F. Andresen. Those in charge of the refreshments which were served in the afternoon were the Mesdames Harmon Nelson, Charles Rathbone, William Graham, T. Huested, and Miss Pauline Kruse.

Hand work table, Mesdames Dorothea Mensel and George Hansen; Candy table, Mrs. J. T. Nolan and Mrs. H. J. Van Gordon; Odds and Ends table, Mrs. A. Schmidt and Mrs. Hans Hansen, all women are of Pleasanton.

PLEASANTON WOMAN HAS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. W. J. Martin entertained the Pleasanton Bridge Club at a luncheon at her home last Wednesday.

Bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon. Mrs. Thomas Silver was honored with first prize, Mrs. A. B. Pickard second prize, and Mrs. Charles Graham guest prize.

The honored guests for the day were: Mrs. Mary Stovall and Mrs. Charles Graham. The club consists of 12 members besides their honored guests.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Elections At Pleasanton

Mrs. Clara Nilson, wife of Walter Nilson, Pleasanton attorney, was elected president of the Pleasanton American Legion Auxiliary at a meeting held at the Veteran's Memorial building last week.

Members of the Auxiliary are busy making plans for the installation of officers to be held jointly with the American Legion Post Friday, September 29. Mrs. Rose Vieux, of Niles, district president, will be installing officer.

The newly elected officers are Mrs. Josie Page, past president; Mrs. Clara Nilson, president; Mrs. Helen Blacet, first vice; Mrs. Edith Trimingham, second vice; Mrs. Myrtle Lanini, secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Apperson, treasurer; Mrs. Lillie Fiorio, chaplain; Mrs. Aida Elworthy, Sargeant at arms; Mrs. Irene Stevenson, marshal; Mrs. Elizabeth Pelle, historian; Mrs. Velma Ruppel, musician. Mrs. Clara Nilson, Mrs. Helen Blacet, Mrs. Edith Trimingham, Mrs. Josie Page, Mrs. Frances Apperson, Mrs. Mary Sanderson, and Mrs. Eleanor Ewart were elected on the executive committee, all of Pleasanton.

At the meeting held last week a number of visitors from Livermore were present.

Mrs. Frances Apperson was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee for the installation. Mrs. Paul was appointed chairman of the gift committee.

There will be no meeting next Wednesday evening because a number of members plan to attend the installation of officers of the Niles Legion.

PLEASANTON BOY GIVEN STAG PARTY

John Dolstra, of Pleasanton, was honored on his 19th birthday Friday evening at McKinley Park.

The affair was attended by a number of John's boy friends. Ed Dolstra acted as host at the affair.

Those who were there were: Arnold Abrott, Radcliffe Howell, John and Ed Dolstra, Everett Kamp, Bill Cary, Billy Dolstra, Lincoln Madsen and Derald Bailey, all of Pleasanton.

HOMEMADE MONEY FINANCES FACTORY

Town in Kentucky Secures Important Industry.

Paducah, Ky.—Construction of a factory to employ 1,000 to 1,500 persons is being financed here with homemade money.

Recently a large firm handling shirts previously made in the state penitentiary announced its products would be made outside the prison and that it was seeking location for a factory.

Paducah business men got busy. They found the factory could be brought here if they financed a building costing $65,000. They got cash and signed notes aggregating that amount.

Leading business men met with the mayor and decided to raise the funds through issuing of scrip. Printers were set to work running off $25,000 in "Certificates of Paducah Industries Committee."

The plan is simple. The certificates are printed by the Paducah Industries, a body organized to supervise operation of the plan. They are distributed through a fiscal agent of the committee.

An employer signing a contract to co-operate in the plan purchases a certain number of the certificates each week, paying $1 each for them. He then pays his employee half in scrip and half in legal tender.

Here enter the stickers. Before an employee can "spend" his certificates he must place a one cent sticker on each certificate. The stickers are printed and sold by the Paducah Industries.

The second person who receives the certificates uses a two cent sticker. The third person handling affixes another one cent sticker.

When these stickers total four cents the certificates may be "cashed" for $1 at a bank.

Gotham Hotels Decrease, Cafes Grow in 28 Years

New York.—Startling changes, coupled with not a few surprises, in Manhattan's business life during the last 28 years were disclosed in comparison of the spring, 1933, issue of the telephone Red Book, and the first Red Book, printed in 1905.

Employment agencies in 1905 numbered 85; only four of these still are represented among the 450 now listed. A check-up on the hotels revealed that there are today over 500, whereas the 1905 book listed 800 hostelries. The increased capacity of the modern skyscraper hotel is held responsible for this decrease.

Among the few old-time hotels still doing business in their original locations are the Sherman Square hotel at Broadway and Seventieth street; the Martha Washington, on East Twenty-eighth street; the Mills hotel on Bleecker street; the old Utah house on Eighth avenue; and the Chelsea, on West Twenty-third street. Restaurants, however, have kept close pace with the yearly increase in population. In 1905 there were approximately 350; today there are nearly 5,000, with very few of the old-timers still in business.

Widows Far Outnumber Widowers in Toronto

Toronto, Ont.—Ontario has twice as many widows as widowers. According to the 1931 census returns there are 118,840 widows, against only 52,225 widowers. Statistics also show that there are only 859,594 unmarried women, as compared with 962,790 bachelors.

By some strange quip of fate there are 731,191 married men and only 703,191 married women. Divorced men and women are almost equal, there being 1,071 men and 1,015 women in the postmarital state.

Brings Coffin of Wife From Coast on His Car

Port Huron, Mich.—After driving almost continuously for four days and nights, with his wife's body in a coffin on top of his automobile, Walter Redmond arrived here from Indio, Calif.

The wife, Mrs. Helen M. Redmond, died in Indio. A former Port Huron resident, she had lived in California with her husband for two years. Desiring to have the body buried here and financially unable to bring it by train, Redmond made the trip by motor.

Origin of the Bank Check

The origin of our bank check goes back to the Middle Ages, when merchants began intrusting their money for safe-keeping to the goldsmiths. At first, when desiring to make a payment the merchants would draw enough to do so. Later, they found it more convenient simply to give an order to the goldsmith to pay a specified sum of money out of what was on deposit belonging to them. These orders, with suitable modifications, have become our modern bank checks. Similarly, the receipts the goldsmiths gave to the merchants for their deposits of gold evolved into the modern bank note.

Bees Like Blue Flowers

The color of certain flowers is largely responsible for their successful propagation. Bees, one of the best-known agents of fertilization, which accomplish this by carrying pollen from flower to flower as they feed, have been found especially partial to flowers of a blue color, such as the blue iris. Hummingbirds, on the other hand, valuable in helping the columbine to reproduce its kind in a similar manner, show a marked preference for flowers of a red color.

Fish Sleep With Eyes Open

One of the proofs that a fish, though its eyes are open, is asleep, is through night time dipnetting operations. The eyes do not see the net, but the fish, always sensitive to any water vibrations, generally manage to get away just in time. It is the theory of an investigator that the freshwater fish sleep at night, generally awakening at the first break of dawn.

Goldsmith's Temper Aroused

Although Goldsmith wrote the immortal classic "The Vicar of Wakefield," and "The Good-Natured Man," so petulant was his nature that he once felt indignant at the admiration bestowed by a company of his acquaintance upon the agility of a monkey, and, starting up in anger and impatience, exclaimed, "I could do all that myself."

"Know Thyself"

Lives are only rich when the inner life is given its opportunity to expand. The individual attitude toward the job whether it be in business or in the home is really in the last analysis one's attitude toward self. For this reason a wise old man centuries ago gave as the basis of his teaching the two words, "Know thyself."

Rocked Babies

Rocked babies are as healthy or healthier than the unrocked. And what's more, insurgent fathers who insist upon swinging their infants high in the air, are doing them no harm whatever, so long as their fielding is accurate, according to a distinguished anthropologist of Johns Hopkins.

Poison Ivy and Poison Oak

Poison ivy and poison oak are not the same, although the names are confused in some parts of the country. Since some forms of poison ivy do not climb and some forms of poison oak do, it is hard to distinguish between them. The fact remains that both are to be avoided.

Extremes in Animal Size

Extremes in size among animal life are to be found in the Malay peninsula, where the insects range from some thirteen inches in length to others too small to see, and other animals from elephants to the smallest known mammal, a very minute variety of bat.

Describe Land in Arpents

Old land deeds in many sections of the country where the French settled in early days, describe the tract in arpents, a land measurement corresponding in size to the present acre. Such land deeds are chiefly found in communities near the Canadian boundary line.

Cameo-Cutting Requires Most Careful Attention

Two kinds of engraving are done in precious stones: Intaglio, which means cutting down into the stone, and relief, such as cameo-cutting.

Onyx, chalcedony and sardonyx are among the popular stones used for cameos, because they have layers. Some of the onyxes have layers of different colors. Agate is black and white, and carnelian is red and white. The figure is cut on the top section, which is usually the lighter one, then the rest of the layer is cut away so the figure stands out on its dark background.

Onyx is not one of the gems, yet it is a valuable stone. The cameo-cutter pays too high a price for it to risk a mistake in his carving. When he is going to work out a figure he first molds it in wax exactly as it is to be in the stone, then he copies it line for line on the better material.

Some of the old Greek cameos are so intricately chiseled that we are led to think the ancient cameo-cutters spent months working on a single stone. Yet the hours they put in were put to good advantage, for a well carved cameo is a permanent thing. There are cameos in existence which were fashioned hundreds and even thousands of years ago, but which are as perfect as though they were done yesterday.

Two towns in Italy, Santa Lucia and Torre de Greco, are the center of the cameo trade.

Presidents' Widows First Pension Started in 1870

The custom of paying pensions to widows of United States Presidents did not originate until July 14, 1870, when the President approved a bill providing that "the secretary of the interior be, and is hereby, authorized to place the name of Mary Lincoln, widow of Abraham Lincoln, deceased, late President of the United States, on the pension roll and allow and pay her a pension at the rate of $3,000 per annum from and after the passage of this act." Her pension was increased to $5,000 a year by the act of February 2, 1882, and this has remained the rate of pensions for widows of Presidents, when granted, since that time.

Prior to the increase, the widow of President Tyler had received a pension of $100 a month, but this rate was reduced on account of the fact that at his death he was a member of the Confederate congress.

The pension has not been granted to all widows, the exceptions usually being as in the case of Mrs. Harding, due to the death of the widow within a comparatively short time after the death of her husband, or to the remarriage of the widow. There is no general statute on the subject, but each pension is the subject of a special act.

Whole Island Disappeared

Perhaps the most disastrous island disappearance of modern times was that of Port Alexander, a Portuguese possession off the coast of West Africa, in 1925. It was inhabited, and at the time of the disaster there were a number of fishing vessels in its harbor. Those who survived were reticent about talking, but from them it was learned that, apparently without warning, the whole island gave way and sank without trace. Only wreckage and scores of bodies remained in the eddying tides to mark the spot where land had once stood. Those on large boats knew only that the land had vanished and that they were engulfed by a titanic tide, and that when they recovered and sought Port Alexander once more, Port Alexander was not there. Not even a reef remained.

Cosmic Bodies in Air

According to the scientists, about 400,000 bodies of cosmic origin enter the earth's atmosphere daily, of which number some 20,000 are large enough to be seen as shooting-stars. "Meteor" comes from a Greek word meaning "things in the air" and the ancients thought they originated in the atmosphere itself. It was not until 100 years ago that they were proved wanderers from the cosmos. —Gas Logic.

The Chinese Cabinet

By KATE EDMONDS

©, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

THE three granddaughters of Phineas Cobb listened to the reading of his last will and testament.

"To my granddaughter, Annie Cobb Youngs, $10,000. To my granddaughter, Martha Weeks Stringer, $10,000. To my granddaughter, Helen Cobb, the Chinese cabinet in my library, together with all my books and collection of engravings."

"That is all," said the lawyer.

"All?" repeated Mrs. Youngs. "What becomes of the house and its contents?"

"It is not mentioned in the will."

"Then," said Mrs. Martha Stringer in an acid tone, "I suppose that will be divided separately, among us three, share and share alike."

"That would be the legal division," admitted the lawyer, "unless your grandfather disposed of it in some other manner."

"You should know that," protested Mrs. Youngs.

He shook his head. "You remember that my partner attended to Mr. Cobb's affairs, and that I was recalled from the West because of my partner's death, which occurred a week before that of Mr. Cobb. I can only administer the estate according to the will, and if you care to carry the matter into court it can be decided definitely."

Mrs. Youngs said she preferred to consult her husband, and Mrs. Stringer echoed the remark. Helen Cobb, the youngest and unmarried one of the cousins, arose and thanked the lawyer for his services, kissed her cousins goodby and went away.

"Grandfather treated her abominably," declared Annie Youngs to Martha as they rode to the railroad station. "She worked for him, took care of him when he was sick, and made a slave of herself—now, she is turned out with that wretched Chinese cabinet and a lot of musty old books. She will have to find something to do. And she's all alone in the world. She's a good nurse, Martha."

In the meantime Helen Cobb walked home like one in a daze. The blow she had received had been a staggering one, deprived her not only of a home and sustenance, but of faith in the grandparent she had loved and cherished in his lonely old age.

"It must be a mistake," she whispered as she let herself into the great, silent house. Maggie, the cook, came creaking upstairs, her round face full of concern.

"You look all wore out, Miss Helen. I've made a cup of tea and cooked a chop; I've baked you a strawberry tart, too."

The girl smiled through her tears. "You are very good, Maggie."

"I expect you ought to see Doctor Hare—your nerves are all unstrung, child."

Helen blushed. "I don't need a doctor, Maggie."

"There's a young doctor thinks he needs you, I reckon."

In a few minutes Helen had told him her disappointment. "I shall have to finish my nursing course, and I hope both you and Doctor Paine will recommend me," she said.

"I am sorry about your grandfather—it is puzzling, for he was a man of strong intellect up to his death. But I am glad, Helen, for another reason—now you can marry me all the sooner. I am still struggling, but there is enough for two—and I would never have dared ask an heiress to become my wife!"

And so they became engaged—the disinherited granddaughter and the poor young doctor.

"I am heiress to a Chinese cabinet and a library of 5,000 volumes!" declared Helen.

The first drawer contained odd bits of Chinese jewelry of small value; the second one was filled with a silk shawl of cobweb fineness, and the third one contained an ivory fan delicately carved. The third drawer was shallow and came out entirely, disclosing another secret drawer behind it.

"How delightful," exclaimed Helen, pulling on the red silk tassel that formed a handle. The secret drawer opened with a jerk and a mass of envelopes fell into Helen's lap. Upon examination they proved to be deeds to the property—house and gardens—transferring all of the real estate to Helen Cobb. Another paper directed her to open each volume in the library. This they did in the presence of the amazed lawyer, and in each book was found a new $100 bill.

"You are quite an heiress after all," said the friendly lawyer, shaking hands with the girl.

"Yes—but—Jack, you're not going?" She followed the doctor to the door. His honest young face was white and set. "After all this I cannot offer you my modest—" There her soft white hands pressed his lips.

"You have asked me and I have promised, and so—you would not make me give the cabinet and the house and the money to my cousins, for I would rather go with you."

From Wolf to Dog

Although the domestic dog is not far removed from its wild ancestors in many ways, yet domesticity has changed its breeding habits. The wolf and other near relatives give birth to their young in spring while the dog whelps over every month of the year, depending on the time it is bred.

Large Bull Rings

Barcelona has three bull rings, all bigger than that of Madrid. The so-called "Monumental" at Barcelona seats 24,000 persons. Granada, Alicante, Palma, Santander, Tarragona and Murcia all have bull rings larger than Madrid. In Spain the number of bull rings totals 29.

Canada's Official Anthem

According to the department of the secretary of state at Ottawa, the only anthem which has official sanction in Canada is "God Save the King." It is always played and sung as the official national anthem. However, "The Maple Leaf Forever" is often called Canada's national anthem. It is known by almost every school child and is widely sung throughout the dominion. Another song which is widely sung and probably the most distinctive patriotic song among Canadians of French extraction is "O Canada." But neither "The Maple Leaf Forever" nor "O Canada," according to the department of the secretary of state of Canada, has official recognition.

Uncle Eben and Politics

"Tain' gettin' into politics," said Uncle Eben, "dat shows a man's smartness as much as de way he gits out."

No Maltese Kitties Are Found on Malta Island

American colonial records contain many allusions to cats. Although none is officially mentioned on the Mayflower Descendants' list, that ship undoubtedly carried a cat, and a cat figures as one of the early settlers of Pennsylvania.

According to the account, observes a writer in the Detroit News, during the first month's desperate struggle for existence, its owners would have found themselves dinnerless one day but for a rabbit caught by the cat and brought proudly home.

These Pennsylvania cats, and all other early American ones, were short-haired European cats.

Outnumbered 10 to 1 by the Persian as a show cat, the short-haired variety holds its own, unprofessionally. And of these the popularity of the blue or Maltese is steadily growing.

These blue cats are supposed to have been brought first from Archangel to England by sailors trading among northern ports and dealing in rare and strange objects. A blue cat with a coat resembling plush in texture, thick and beautiful, with eyes of deep orange, would seem an exotic creature and worth carrying home. The fur, which can be either dark or light in color, probably owes its thickness to the cold climate from which they came—Iceland, Siberia and Norway.

Some persons do not consider the Maltese a distinct breed, but a cross between Blacks and Whites. The name is a mystery. There are no cats of this type on the Island of Malta. They are called in England "Spanish Blue," "French Blue" and sometimes Chartreuse, because they were greatly fancied by the Chartreuse monks of France.

Monkeys, Dogs, Squirrels Provide Their Own Games

That animals seek amusement is quite evident when one pays any attention to the gamboling of lambs or the frolics of dogs. But occasionally individual animals adopt a line of their own, and find entertainment in an unusual manner. Monkeys have been seen to amuse themselves by teasing crocodiles. The procedure was to select a branch overhanging the crocodile, and then for the monkey to swing down and slap the crocodile on the nose. Repeated attacks irritated the latter, and the fun came in when he made frantic slaps at the monkey—and just missed. In another case a monkey found pleasure in hanging down his tail and trying to induce a dog to seize it. When the latter made the attempt the monkey quietly lifted up his tail with one hand and struck the dog with the other—much to the latter's surprise.

A pelican and a kitten once had an enjoyable time together. The bird seized the animal and tossed it into the air, and then with open mouth tried to catch it when falling. The cat, however, fell on its feet, and offered itself for another toss, and the pelican obliged. This was the beginning of a unique friendship. Squirrels find amusement by biting off apples in an orchard for the benefit of a flock of sheep. The chattering of the squirrels attracts the sheep, and they then jump from tree to tree and release the apples, to the satisfaction of the sheep.

Puffers Are Peculiar

Various sea-creatures, like the moon, wax and wane in size. Some have the power of growing larger than normal as a temporary expedient, then reducing themselves. Others regularly grow smaller, and then start life afresh. The fishes called globe-fishes or puffers can, by swallowing water or air, make their bodies swell up like balloons. They are too roundish in shape to be fast swimmers, but they wear an armor of spines which appear as a truly terrible palisade when they puff themselves up and float. No predatory fish dare attack these porcupines of the sea. When they deflate themselves, by expelling the air, a loud hissing sound is produced.

Jade Is Valued Highly by Chinese and Japanese

Jade is not usually counted among the precious stones, yet to the Chinese and Japanese it is the most valuable of all gems, says the Washington Star. In fact, they measure the value of all other stones in terms of jade. The Chinese say jade is a combination of the five cardinal virtues: Jim, charity; Gi, modesty; Yu, courage; Ketsu, justice, and Chi, wisdom. They carve it most exquisitely in elaborate and fragile designs, for it is no harder than ordinary glass, and so is not difficult to work upon. It is frequently used for carvings of the figures of the Chinese gods.

Jade includes two stones which are very similar in appearance, greenstone and jadeite. Both are fibrous and tough and greenish. Greenstone, or nephrite as it is usually called, is the more common and less valuable of the two. When examined under the microscope, it is found to be made of a great many hard fibers closely matted together. The color varies from a sort of gray to leaf and dark green, the color being darker when iron, which is one of the minerals in it, is present in a large quantity.

Jadeite is much more highly prized by Chinese than ordinary nephrite. It takes a greasy luster when it is polished. The color varies from white to an emerald green. The finest is found lying in dark green, ribbon-like formations in Burma. It is prized almost as much as the costly rubies which pour out of Burma's mines and are carried away by caravan. All the Burma jade is sent to China to be made into Chinese jewelry.

German Court Clarifies the Meaning of Railroad

Probably we all think we know what a railroad is, but it is interesting to find an elaborate scientific definition laid down with typical German thoroughness by a German court. And it's all in one sentence which the United Press reports from Berlin in a decision of a high federal court:

"A railroad is an undertaking devoted to the repeated moving along of people or goods over not entirely unessential distances, and upon a metallic base which by its consistency, construction and smoothness is meant to make possible the transportation of heavier weights, or to achieve a comparatively great speed of motion, and which through this particular qualification in connection with the natural forces used for the generation of the motive power (namely, electricity, animal or human muscular activity, or, on a slight down grade, even by the momentum of the vehicle itself or its cargo) is in a position (according to circumstances, useful to a limited degree, or destructive of human life or dangerous to human health) to exercise a comparatively important function by the operations of the enterprise."

The Standard dictionary definition of a railroad is shorter and more simple: "a graded road having one or more tracks, usually of metal rails, supported by sleepers, and designed for the passage of rolling stock."—Literary Digest.

Use Poppy Oil for Lamps

Poppy oil is extensively used in China as fuel for lamps, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, particularly in the opium-producing centers, where it is plentiful and inexpensive. Although the light given by poppy oil is poor as compared with kerosene, the cost is only about half as much, and this is the deciding factor among the Chinese who cling to it.

Old-Time Chimes

Chimes of some pattern were fairly common in the Sixteenth century, and accounts rendered for their maintenance afford quaint reading. In 1527 an agreement with one Thomas Loveday shows that he "hath convenaunted and bargaynd with the Abbot to repayre the Chyme gonge uppon eight belles," and the Abbot "promyseth to pay the said Th. at the fynisshement of his said tunyable and wokemanly repayre."

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Butler's cafe and service station, including the four cabins, located on the main street in Newark, will be taken over in management of Edward and James Collins on October 1. Jmes, who has been a trusted employee of the Leslie Salt Company for several years, will operate the service station. Edward, who holds a responsible position in San Francisco, will not affiliate himself with the business for some time. Mrs. Emma Collins, mother of the two young men will have charge of the cafe and manage the cabins. The many friends of the young businessmen predict a very successful management.

in connection with the evening's work, stating that when another such evening is held, he hopes to see a much larger attendance.

In speaking of the night meet, F. V. Jones told of the timely talk given by W. Burnette, of San Jose. Jones said that it was exactly what the chamber has wanted to hear for some time. He voted that T. J. Power be thanked for his efforts in securing Burnette as speaker.

Much comment was passed on the discovery of a quartette in the ranks of the Niles chamber. Dr. E. C. Grau, who was apparently the leader of the singers, received much praise for his sublime rendition of "Sweet Adeline."

In an effort to start activities of the Niles body in the direction of campaigning for the repair of the Niles Canyon road by the state, Jones called upon E. A. Ellsworth to tell of what plans, if any, had been made to date concerning it. Ellsworth said that the Southern Alameda County Highway Commission had at its last meeting at Livermore placed emphasis on the Altamont road, no mention having been made of work in the canyon. He stated that the Niles chamber, combined with groups in other towns should begin work immediately to insure an appropriation for repair of the road in question. Preliminary plans for the campaign were left to the highway committee.

W. B. Kirk, slated to speak at several previous meetings, finally appeared, and narrated experiences encountered on his recent trip into the northwest. Of particular interest was his description if a new forest fire control method inaugurated in Oregon by himself and Harvey Braun.

Harold F. Grey, head of the mosquito abatement district in Alameda county, was a guest at the luncheon. He expressed his pleasure in attending.

Dr. E. C. Grau was appointed as committeeman for the meeting Monday.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

FINAL DETAILS FOR CAMPOS RECITAL COMPLETED

Oliver Campos Music School pupils are putting finishing touches on their technique and getting everything in order for the annual recital to be given on Friday night October 6, at the Washington Union High school auditorium.

Nothing has been spared to make the setting for "The Silver Bar," representing the life and gaiety of one of New York's fashionable night clubs, one of the most lavish and unique ever presented to the music lovers of Washington township.

Some of the specialties of the evening will be a dance interpretation of the "Gold Diggers' Song" —a clever idea of "Sweetheart Darlin'," —and a special rendition of Campos's own compositions. Many numbers will be done in tableau form, Campos says. Miss Geraldyn Harlan will present some of her verstile dancing pupils.

Besides a full orchestra to render special numbers the following pupils will taken part in the program:

Mabel Lewis, Mae Eagan, Dorohty Silver, Eldora Perry, Marjorie Perry, Abbie Harlan, Emile Pierce, Eleanor Roderick, June Mae Rose, Roy Duarte, Bernice Weber, Gordon Pond, Lorraine Silva, Esther Jason, Maurice Silva, Phyllis Day, Sizu Mitsuyosi, Donald Flores, Jeanette Silva, Dorothy Enos, Lucille Oliveria, Reginald Agna, Mabel Enos, Byrde Morris, Harold Faria, Alton Steinhoff.

It is the aim of Campos to present this entertainment to the people of Washington township as something to which they should feel free to come. There is no admission charge.

E. Bellici, of the Washington Union High school department, will conduct the high school band in a few numbers before the curtain rises.

P. T. A. BENEFIT CARD PARTY REPORTED A SUCCESS

Members of the Niles Parent Teachers Association this week stated that all in all the results of the Milk Fund Benefit Card party held Friday night at the Niles Grammar school, were quite gratifyng.

Sixteen tables of players enjoyed the evening, and numbers of those who had purchased tickets did not come.

Prizes, donated for the affair by Niles merchants and others, were valuable and appropriate.

The Fund to which the proceeds of the party went is used throughout the year to supply milk and free lunches to unfortunate children. Last year, a survey shows, 1,670 free lunches were provided, and 2,556 milk rations. Townspeople are solidly back of this worthy cause.

Inexperienced Driver Unhurt In Accident

E. Hunter, brother of Mrs. T. Costello, narrowly escaped injury early this week when his automobile was struck on the Mission highway, near the intersection of the Driscoll road.

Hunter, an inexperenced driver, did not pause long enough before driving out on the main road from a side lane, it is said. His machine was run into by a car coming down the grade and badly damaged. Hunter miraculously escaped injury, as did the other driver.

The first apricot tree in Washington township was in the old orchard of the Padres at Mission San Jose. It was called the tree of "forbidden fruit," to insure it against ravaging by the Indians.

Troop No. 2, of Niles, has added a junior section to the group, to be called "The Boys of the Black and Orange." Boys between the ages of 9 and 12, who promise to join the troop on their twelfth birthday will be eligible to join. The first meeting will be held tomorrow evening from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock. Scoutmaster Lawrence W. Pine will be in charge.

Not to be outdone by the Irvington troop, which is inaugurating a roller skating hockey team, the Niles Troop No. 1 is planning a basketball team.

B. K. Van Cleave, Irvington scoutmaster has moved to Oakland. As yet no one has been appointed in his place.

Since the starting of schools in the township, the troops are planning the work of the year. Among the activities slated for the season, is the district rally to be held soon.

Troop No. 2 of Niles has changed its meeting night to Tuesday evenings.

Meeting of Plumbers Association In Niles

Meeting at the Florence restaurant last Thursday, the Washington township members of the Master Plumbers' Association, discussed further plans for drawing up a local code, dictating working hours and practices. Final adoption of the code will be after it has been approved by the state and national associations.

Those who attended the meet were: V. Kramer, of Irvington; Ed. Hirsch, also of Irvington; R. Peterson, of Niles; J. Bettencourt, of Centerville, and E. Kolln, of Pleasanton.
